Studying foreign languages and their cultures is desirable and essential for understanding our complex global world. It is crucial to educate global citizens who will be sensitive to other cultures and capable of communicating in other languages. Proficiency in a foreign language by itself, or combined with other professional training, may lead to a variety of rewarding careers. Moreover, the personal experience of mastering another language is enriching and gratifying.

The Majors in Chinese Studies, French & Francophone Studies, German Studies, Hispanic Studies, Japanese Studies, and Russian Studies

These majors are designed to lead to acquisition of communicative language proficiency and substantive knowledge of other cultures.

Drawing on the unique interdisciplinary climate of the Carnegie Mellon campus, the undergraduate majors in Modern Languages encourage the acquisition of multiple skills by students with varied backgrounds, talents, and interests. An important resource in support of these goals is the Modern Language Resource Center (MLRC), a state-of-the-art facility that provides students with access to authentic foreign language materials such as original television broadcasts, interactive video projects, Technology Enhanced Language Learning (TELL) courses, international audio and video resources, and computerized assessment tools.

Students majoring in a modern language are also encouraged to enroll, preferably during their junior year, in a study-abroad program or to spend a summer abroad at a language institute or in an internship. Semester or year-long programs are available in places such as China, France, Germany, Japan, Africa, Russia, Spain, and Latin America. The Department also sponsors summer courses in China, Germany, and Spain. Foreign film series, informal conversation tables, native-speaker conversation partners, speaking and writing assistants, and Student Advisory Committee cultural events are some of the activities organized by the Department of Modern Languages to increase students' ability in languages and knowledge of cultures.

The major in Modern Languages is designed to permit students to acquire communicative language proficiency in their language of specialization. Courses in culture and civilization offer students a solid introduction to the main currents in national literatures as well as artistic and social movements. These courses integrate study of cultures with skill development in reading, writing, and aural/oral communication. In addition, the student who majors in Modern Languages will develop a perspective on the learning and use of second languages, from both a social and cognitive point of view, within contemporary American society and in an increasingly global community. Working closely with their advisor, language majors are guided to develop personal interests by taking courses in other disciplines such as fine arts, history, psychology, philosophy, and other humanities and social sciences, which often include readings, discussions, and papers in the foreign language. The rich technological environment of the campus strongly enhances all fields of language study.

Second language proficiency is an asset which provides students with practical as well as theoretical bases for a variety of paths after graduation. Students of Modern Languages have taken paths to a wide variety of careers in government, entrepreneurship and business, law, technology and engineering firms, media, public health, health policy, and health professions, non-profit organizations, entertainment and creative arts, and education. They are also prepared to pursue graduate studies in second language-related fields (e.g. linguistics, second language acquisition, literary and cultural studies).

Curriculum

Six specializations are available in the Department of Modern Languages: Chinese Studies, French and Francophone Studies, German Studies, Hispanic Studies, Japanese Studies, and Russian Studies.

Language-specific faculty advisors for these majors are:

Chinese Studies- Dr. Elisabeth Kaske, Associate Professor of Chinese Studies and Dr. Yueming Yu, Teaching Professor of Chinese Studies

French & Francophone Studies-Dr. Bonnie Youngs, Teaching Professor of French & Francophone Studies

German Studies-Dr. Stephen Brockmann, Professor of German

Hispanic Studies-Dr. Therese Tardio, Associate Teaching Professor of Hispanic Studies

Japanese Studies-Dr. Yasufumi Iwasaki, Associate Teaching Professor of Japanese and Dr. Keiko Koda, Professor of Japanese and Second Language Acquisition

The Major in Chinese Studies 96-99 units

Faculty Advisors

Dr. Elisabeth Kaske, Associate Professor of Chinese Studies

(ekaske@andrew.cmu.edu)

Dr. Yueming Yu, Teaching Professor of

Chinese Studies (yyu@andrew.cmu.edu)

Prerequisites

Intermediate-level proficiency in the Chinese language. This is equivalent to the completion of three courses (two at the 100-level and one at the 200-level), or placement or exemption based on Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate or CMU internal placement test scores. In all cases, progress will be accelerated by study abroad, which is highly recommended for all majors. (Study abroad advisor - Dr. Yueming Yu, yyu@andrew.cmu.edu)

Students with native or near-native proficiency in listening and speaking of the language prior to entering CMU should consult with the major advisor for a different curriculum that may accelerate their completion of the requirement.

Students may double count a maximum of one course taken for the Chinese Studies major that is also being used to fulfill the requirements of other majors, minors, and programs.

This is presented as a two-year (junior-senior) plan for completing the major requirements. It is intended to show that this program can be completed in as few as two years, not that it must be. Students may enter their major and begin major course requirements as early as the start of the sophomore year, and in some instances in the first year. Students should consult their advisor when planning their program.

This plan is also an example of the suggested sequence of study for students who have had little or no prior exposure to the language. Such students would need to satisfy the prerequisites (elementary and intermediate language study) during their freshman and sophomore years

The Major in Japanese Studies 102-105 units

Faculty Advisors

Dr. Yasufumi Iwasaki, Associate Teaching Professor of Japanese Studies (yiwasaki@andrew.cmu.edu)

Dr. Keiko Koda, Professor of Japanese Studies and Second Language Acquisition (kkoda@andrew.cmu.edu)

Prerequisites

Intermediate-level proficiency in the Japanese language. This is equivalent to the completion of three courses (two at the 100-level and one at the 200-level), or placement or exemption based on Advanced Placement, Cambridge GCE Advanced level, International Baccalaureate or CMU internal placement test scores. In all cases, progress will be accelerated by study abroad, which is highly recommended for all majors. (Study abroad advisor - Dr. Yasufumi Iwasaki, yiwasaki@andrew.cmu.edu)

Students may double count a maximum of one course taken for the Japanese Studies major that is also being used to fulfill the requirements of other majors, minors, and programs.

The Major in Russian Studies 75–78 units

Faculty Advisor

Dr. Tatyana Gershkovich, Assistant Professor of Russian

The major in Russian Studies is jointly administered by the Departments of History and Modern Languages. Students are required to fulfill requirements in history and in language and culture.

Prerequisites

Elementary-level proficiency in the Russian language. This is equivalent to the completion of two courses at the 100-level, or placement or exemption based on Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate or CMU internal placement test scores. Carnegie Mellon students who arrive with previous language study and/or who have high AP or CEEB scores will be able to begin taking courses toward the major earlier in their undergraduate program and will also be able, should they so desire, to complete an additional major. In all cases, progress will be accelerated by study abroad, which is highly recommended for all majors.

Students may double count a maximum of one course taken for the Russian Studies major that is also being used to fulfill the requirements of other majors, minors, and programs.

1. Core Course in History 9 units

Complete one course.*

79-265	Russian History: From the First to the Last Tsar	9
79-266	Russian History: From Communism to Capitalism	9

* Both courses are recommended.

2. Required Electives in History 18 units

Complete two courses. In consultation with the major advisor, students may substitute a different course. Units

79-267	The Soviet Union in World War II: Military, Political, and Social History	9
79-341	The Cold War in Documents and Film	9

3. Core Courses in Modern Languages 27 units

Complete three courses.

82-291	Intermediate Russian I	9
82-292	Intermediate Russian II	9
82-399	Special Topics: Russian in Context (Students can repeat 82-399 with different topics.)*	Var.

Should a student enter the Russian Studies program with demonstrated language proficiency at the intermediate or advanced level, higher level courses will be used to complete the required total of 27 units from the list of core courses in Modern Languages. Advanced language options include Special Topics: Russian, a repeatable course, as well as subject-oriented language supplements to existing courses taught in English in a variety of fields. The student can add a language supplement (3 units) to selected 9-unit electives, earning a total of 12 units for the language-supplemented course.

4. Required Electives 18 units

Complete two courses. This list is compiled from possibilities such as but not limited to the following. Students should consult OLR and their major advisor for the most up to date interdisciplinary electives appropriate for the Russian Studies curriculum. Courses may be suggested to the major advisor for approval as a substitute. Note that not all courses are offered each semester.

*Students may repeat these courses with new topics.

If their schedule permits and after consultation with the major advisor, students may elect to take the 3-unit Modern Languages Senior Seminar in addition to two 9-unit electives.

5. Required Independent Research 3–6 units

82-599	Russian Studies Thesis	Var.

In the senior year, majors are required to undertake an independent research or translation project in which their language skills are applied to Russian-language materials. This project, which earns 3 to 6 units, is conducted in connection with an existing course in Russian history, language, literature or politics. The student works closely with the professor to select a topic requiring the use of Russian sources suitable to the student's proficiency level. For example, students may choose to prepare a translation of a little-known piece of Russian literature or a debate from a nineteenth-century journal, to compare Soviet and Western newspaper coverage of the Cuban missile crisis, to research Russian opinion of American race relations, or to read and evaluate the reviews of a popular Russian novel.

Study Abroad

Students in both the major and minor programs are encouraged to spend a semester or summer in Russia via an approved exchange program. Many exchange programs offer instruction in Russian language, history, literature, and culture, in internationally recognized universities. They also offer travel to ancient sites and cities, visits to museums, palaces, exhibitions, and monuments, and the opportunity to live with a Russian host family. Scholarship monies are available.

Faculty Exchange Program

In 1993, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences initiated a faculty exchange program with the Russian State University of the Humanities (RGGU), one of the foremost universities in Russia, located in Moscow. Carnegie Mellon has hosted faculty members from RGGU specializing in history, language and philosophy. These professors have joined our College departments for a semester, offering unique courses and perspectives not generally available to our students. In the past, these Russian visitors have offered courses on the Russian Civil War as well as advanced language and literature courses. Several faculty members from Carnegie Mellon have visited Moscow, using the RGGU exchange to pursue archival research and collaborative projects. The exchange offers students an opportunity to study language from native speakers, gain exposure to different perspectives on history and politics, and gather firsthand knowledge about recent developments in Russia. In addition, the exchange can provide important contacts for students interested in pursuing careers abroad.

Modern Languages as an Additional Major

In addition to their primary major, a student may complete a major in Chinese Studies, French and Francophone Studies, German Studies, Hispanic Studies, Japanese Studies, and Russian Studies. Students outside of Dietrich College interested in an additional major in Modern Languages need to fulfill only the requirements for the Modern Languages major but not the Dietrich College General Education requirements.

Minors in the Department of Modern Languages

The Department of Modern Languages also offers minors in Arabic Studies, Chinese Studies, French and Francophone Studies, German Studies, Hispanic Studies, Japanese Studies, and Russian Studies. A minor in one of these language and culture areas requires core courses similar to the major and includes a variety of options for electives. Many students study abroad as part of their program. Students who minor in Modern Languages have found the program an enriching complement to their major areas of study and an asset to their work in government, entrepreneurship and business, law, technology and engineering firms, media, public health, health policy, and health professions, non-profit organizations, entertainment and creative arts, and education.

Curriculum

The minimum requirement for the minor in French and Francophone Studies, German Studies or Hispanic Studies is 54 units (not including any 100- or 200-level prerequisite work in the chosen language), as outlined below. The minimum requirement for the minor in Arabic Studies, Chinese Studies, Japanese Studies or Russian Studies is 54-60 units, depending on the student's language background.

Language-specific faculty advisors for these specializations are:

Arabic Studies-Dr. Khaled Al Masaeed, Assistant Professor of Arabic Studies (Pittsburgh) and Dr. Zeinab Ibrahim, Teaching Professor of Arabic Studies (Qatar)

Chinese Studies-Dr. Gang Liu, Assistant Teaching Professor of Chinese Studies, Dr. Sue-mei Wu, Teaching Professor of Chinese Studies, and Tianxue Yao, Lecturer of Chinese Studies

French & Francophone Studies- Dr. Bonnie Youngs, Teaching Professor of French & Francophone Studies

German Studies-Dr. Gabriele Eichmanns Maier, Associate Teaching Professor of German Studies

Hispanic Studies-Dr. Felipe Gómez, Associate Teaching Professor of Hispanic Studies and Dr. María del Mar Rosa Rodríguez, Assistant Professor of Hispanic Studies

Japanese Studies- Dr. Yasufumi Iwasaki, Associate Teaching Professor of Japanese and Dr. Yoshihiro Yasuhara, Assistant Teaching Professor of Japanese Studies

Russian Studies-Dr. Tatyana Gershkovich, Assistant Professor of Russian Studies

The Minor in Arabic Studies 54-57 units

Faculty Advisors

Dr. Khaled Al Masaeed, Assistant Professor of Arabic Studies (Pittsburgh) (masaeed@andrew.cmu.edu)

Dr. Zeinab Ibrahim, Teaching Professor of Arabic Studies (Qatar) (zeinab@qatar.cmu.edu)

Prerequisites

Intermediate-level proficiency in the Arabic language. This is equivalent to the completion of three courses (two at the 100-level and one at the 200-level), or placement or exemption based on Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate or CMU internal placement test scores. In all cases, progress will be accelerated by study abroad, which is highly recommended for all minors. (Study abroad advisor - Dr. Khaled Al Masaeed, (masaeed@andrew.cmu.edu).

Students may double count a maximum of one course taken for the Arabic Studies minor that is also being used to fulfill the requirements of other majors, minors, and programs.

Students with native or near-native proficiency in listening and speaking of the language prior to entering CMU should consult with the minor advisors for a different curriculum that may accelerate their completion of the requirement.

The Minor in Russian Studies 54 units

Faculty Advisor

Dr. Tatyana Gershkovich, Assistant Professor of Russian Studies

The minor in Russian Studies is jointly administered by the Departments of History and Modern Languages. Students are required to fulfill requirements in history and in language and culture.

Prerequisites

Elementary-level proficiency in the Russian language. This is equivalent to the completion of two courses at the 100-level, or placement or exemption based on Advanced Placement, International Baccalaureate or CMU internal placement test scores. Carnegie Mellon students who arrive with previous language study and/or who have high AP or CEEB scores will be able to begin taking courses toward the minor earlier in their undergraduate program. In all cases, progress will be accelerated by study abroad, which is highly recommended for all minors.

Students may double count a maximum of one course taken for the Russian Studies minor that is also being used to fulfill the requirements of other majors, minors, and programs.

1. Required Course in History 9 units

Complete one course. *		Units
79-265	Russian History: From the First to the Last Tsar	9
79-266	Russian History: From Communism to Capitalism	9

* Both courses are recommended.

2. Required Electives in History 18 units

In consultation with the minor advisor, students may choose a substitute.

79-267	The Soviet Union in World War II: Military, Political, and Social History	9
79-341	The Cold War in Documents and Film	9

3. Core Courses in Modern Languages 18 units

Complete both courses.		Units
82-291	Intermediate Russian I	9
82-292	Intermediate Russian II	9

Should a student enter the Russian Studies program with demonstrated language proficiency at the intermediate or advanced level, higher level courses will be used to complete the required total of 18 units of core courses in Modern Languages. Advanced language options include Special Topics: Russian, a repeatable course, as well as subject-oriented language supplements to existing courses taught in English in a variety of fields. The student can add a language supplement (3 units) to selected 9-unit electives, earning a total of 12 units for the language-supplemented course.

4. Interdisciplinary Electives 18 units

Complete two courses. This list is compiled from possibilities such as but not limited to the following. Students should consult their minor advisor for the most up to date interdisciplinary electives appropriate for the Russian Studies curriculum. Courses may be suggested to the minor advisor for approval as a substitute. Note that not all courses are offered each semester.

* Students may repeat these course with new topics.

Study Abroad

A semester or year of study abroad is strongly recommended. Consult with your advisor and the Office of International Education (OIE) about possible options. Students are encouraged to spend a semester or summer in Russia via an approved exchange program. Many exchange programs offer instruction in Russian language, history, literature, and culture, in internationally recognized universities. They also offer travel to ancient sites and cities, visits to museums, palaces, exhibitions, and monuments, and the opportunity to live with a Russian host family. Scholarship opportunities are available.
