How to Use the Catalog

Finding a College/Department

There are several ways to find a college/department page in the online Undergraduate Catalog:

Search Box

The Search Box in the upper right-hand corner allows you to search for a college or department by name or keyword. Type in the name of the department (e.g., "history," "physics," "computer science," etc.) and click Go. You will be taken to a Search Results page, from which you can visit the desired college or department. You will also find a link under each department in the Search Results page to go directly to that department’s Course Descriptions.

Note: Most departments also allow you to search via keywords, such as "math" for Mathematical Sciences or "biology" for Biological Sciences, in case you cannot remember the full name.

Drop-Down Links

The Catalog main page, all college pages, and the Campus-Wide Services and Options page all have drop-down boxes above “In this section” links to allow you to navigate quickly to pages under their heading (for example, from the Catalog main page, you can choose “Mellon College of Science” to go to the college main page, then choose “Department of Biological Sciences” to go to that department). These are listed in alphabetical order according to the name of the page.

Catalog Contents

The Catalog Contents page can be viewed by clicking the "Catalog Contents (http://coursecatalog.web.cmu.edu/previous/2013-2014/catalogcontents)" link in the grey bar near the top of each page. It features a list, grouped by college or topic, of each page in the Catalog. You can also find this list at the bottom of the Catalog Home (http://coursecatalog.web.cmu.edu/previous/2013-2014) page.

A–Z Directory

The "A–Z Directory (http://coursecatalog.web.cmu.edu/previous/2013-2014/azindex)" link in the grey bar near the top of each page will take you to an alphabetical index of all pages in the current Catalog, sorted by title. Note that many pages will begin with “Department of.”

Navigation Links

Near the top of each page, just under the grey bar, you will see navigation links which go back up through the levels of the catalog page hierarchy. For example, on the Department of English page, You can go back up to the College of Humanities & Social Sciences page or all the way up to the Catalog Home page.

Finding Course Descriptions

There are several ways to find course descriptions in the online Undergraduate Catalog:

Pop-up Course Descriptions

Wherever you see a course number (e.g. 76-101) displayed as a link, you can click on it to bring up the course’s description, number of units, the semester(s) in which it is offered, and any prerequisites. Please remember that these descriptions are accurate as of the publication of the Catalog; details for some courses, especially “special topics” courses, may change from semester to semester. You can also check the Course Schedule tab in Student Information Online (https://s3.as.cmu.edu/sio/#schedule-home) for current descriptions and prerequisites.

Course Description Pages

The last link of the “In this section” box for each academic department will be labeled “Course Descriptions.” This will take you to a page containing course descriptions, etc. for each course offered by the department. As with the pop-up course descriptions, these are accurate as of the date of publication.

Faculty Listing

Each department page contains a list of its current faculty, showing for each faculty member the following: official title, degree, alma mater, and the year he or she started at Carnegie Mellon University. This list is in the dark grey box on the right side of the page.

Navigation Links

Near the top of each page, just under the grey bar, you will see navigation links which go back up through the levels of the catalog page hierarchy. For example, if you go back to the Catalog main page, you can go back up to the College of Humanities & Social Sciences page or all the way up to the Catalog Home page.

Browsing Pages

Each department’s page will show a listing of their currently offered undergraduate programs, along with course requirements and elective options. Some important features are listed below:

Pop-up Course Descriptions

Wherever you see a course number (e.g. 76-101) displayed as a link, you can click on it to bring up the course’s description, number of units, the semester(s) in which it is offered, and any prerequisites. Please remember that these descriptions are accurate as of the publication of the Catalog; details for some courses, especially “special topics” courses, may change from semester to semester. You can also check the Course Schedule tab in Student Information Online (https://s3.as.cmu.edu/sio/#schedule-home) for current descriptions and prerequisites.

Course Description Pages

The last link of the “In this section” box for each academic department will be labeled “Course Descriptions.” This will take you to a page containing course descriptions, etc. for each course offered by the department. As with the pop-up course descriptions, these are accurate as of the date of publication.

Faculty Listing

Each department page contains a list of its current faculty, showing for each faculty member the following: official title, degree, alma mater, and the year he or she started at Carnegie Mellon University. This list is in the dark grey box on the right side of the page.

Navigation Links

Near the top of each page, just under the grey bar, you will see navigation links which go back up through the levels of the catalog page hierarchy. For example, if you go back to the Catalog main page, you can go back up to the College of Humanities & Social Sciences page or all the way up to the Catalog Home page.

Browsing Catalogs from Prior Years

The "Previous Catalogs (http://coursecatalog.web.cmu.edu/previous/2013-2014/previous)" link in the grey bar near the top of each page will take you to a page containing links to several Undergraduate Catalogs from years past (from 2004 to the present).

• All of these can be downloaded as PDFs for viewing or printing.
• Catalogs from 2010 and later can be viewed as archived webpages, with all search functionality intact. You will see a note at the top of each page to note that you are viewing an archived Catalog, along with a link to the current Catalog.