As part of the mission of Carnegie Mellon University, CMU students are encouraged and supported to actively engage with the community through service and collaboration. As part of this mission, the Gelfand Center works with students from every college to connect with opportunities that support the k-12 community. Whether it's experiential learning courses, student employment opportunities, joining student organizations, or other avenues, the Gelfand Center is committed to helping all students find their path. To explore and engage with these resources, access the LGC CMU Student Portal (<https://www.cmu.edu/gelfand/education/cmu-students/>). This resource is available to all students currently registered at Carnegie Mellon University.

Pathways to a Teaching Career

Carnegie Mellon offers a teacher certification program in the school of music but does not offer a degree in education or teacher certification program in other academic areas. Students can develop skills and knowledge that will help to prepare them for a career in teaching. There are several pathways to a teaching career and interested students can reach out to the Leonard Gelfand Center (<https://www.cmu.edu/gelfand/contact-us.html>) to discuss opportunities and programs that can be pursued.
